SU announces wireless plan

Jena Hoppinsteel
Two Samford Crimson

Campus trash cans will be filled with discarded Ethernet cables in the Fall 2008 semester. Samford has announced that it is getting wireless. Wireless Internet access will be available in all academic buildings and on the quad, and residence halls will be equipped to later this August. The wireless initiative at Samford has been around for several years, and additional wireless "hot spots" have been added across the campus every year. Vice President of Operations Sarah Latham said, "However, there was not a strategic plan for implementation and no identified timeline for completion.

In the past three years some buildings around campus, such as the library and the art building, have added a wireless system for the whole building. The wireless will be available for the 2008-2009 school year. Engage now faces an unusual size and to pull off the largest concert in two years. Engage's last minute changes and was inspiring his passion. His passion was inspiring Samford, increase the appeal of SGA sponsored events and help promote athletic events. The concert was designed to help pay for this new development a fee of $110 will be added to dorm room bills. Hargrave predicts that there will be between 500 to 1,000 routers on campus by 2009.

"We don't want to be the Internet provider for the world," Hargrave said, "but it's a necessity." Samford students will need to pay "enterprise class equipment," a step up from the home router, and Hargrave predicts that there will be between 500 to 1,000 routers on campus by 2009.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.

"Having a cord to use the Internet is annoying, so I don't mind paying a little more to have a wireless connection," junior political science major Gaines Johnson said. "I can just walk into the library and plug my laptop on the quad.

It's not as fast as a wired network, but it would be nice to pop open your laptop on the quad." He said about the security feature.
Campus

Brewer Plaza dedication on Friday

Cumberland School of Law plans to dedicate the Martha and Albert Brewer Plaza in a special ceremony to honor the former Alabama governor on April 4. The plaza, which is in front of Memory Uncle Robinson Hall, honors the couple’s contributions to Alabama. Alabama Lieutenant Governor Jimmy E. Folsom, Jr. and others will speak at the ceremony at 10 a.m.

State

City Stages announces line-up

Headlne for this year’s City Stages Music Festival were announced Sunday, March 30. Performers include Diana Ross, The Flaming Lips, Max Bresnick, Sean Kingston and many more.

City Stages will be held in downtown Birmingham on Father’s Day weekend, June 14 through 15. In honor of the 20th annual event, a limited number of advance weekend passes will be offered and sold at two percent off the normal price.

Pases can be purchased at ticket-master outlets starting on Friday, April 4.

Nation

Missing Ohio Soldier’s remains found

The remains of a soldier listed as missing/captured since 2004 were found in Iraq. Maj. Michael A. Maupin was a 20-year-old private first class when he was captured on April 9, 2004 after his convoy was ambushed. Maupin was promoted to the rank of specialist shortly after his capture and then to sergeant in April 2005. The remains of a soldier listed as missing/captured since 2004 were found in Iraq. Maj. Michael A. Maupin was a 20-year-old private first class when he was captured on April 9, 2004 after his convoy was ambushed. Maupin was promoted to the rank of specialist shortly after his capture and then to sergeant in April 2005.

World

Girl’s body moves from Goa to UK

The body of 15-year-old Scarlet Keeling will return to the UK with her father on Tuesday.

Ms. Keeleron has been fighting Indian authorities ever since they claimed the death was due to an accidental drowning. Keeling was on vacation with her family when she was discovered dead on Anjuna beach Feb. 17. A second post-mortem examination revealed that she had been raped and drowned. It also revealed that Keeling had been given LSD, cocaine and ecstasy the night she died.

Ms. Keeleron, who wanted to bury her daughter back home, plans to go back to Goa until the conclusion of the investigation.

Political Update

An estimated 20,000 people banded in Shanken on a campus lawn to hear Obama ahead of the April 22 primary in Pennsylvania.

Alphonso David, president of the National Legal Action Group, a small face-to-face campaign stop. "I’m not really sure why Dean Smedley went to the Shire party."}

"I’ve been working on engage and Tulsa University. It is a great way to help bring change, and I want to make Samoa the best it can be."

"Samford has had a big impact on my life, and I want to do everything I can to make the best it can be."

"I’ve been working on engage and Tulsa University. It is a great way to help bring change, and I want to make Samoa the best it can be."

"Samford has had a big impact on my life, and I want to do everything I can to make the best it can be."

"I’ve been working on engage and Tulsa University. It is a great way to help bring change, and I want to make Samoa the best it can be."

"Samford has had a big impact on my life, and I want to do everything I can to make the best it can be."